

COAL OPERATORS BLAME U. M. W. FOR CONDITIONS

Says Miners' Union, Responsible for Recent Coal Shortage and High Prices—Declare Violence "Not Sporadic but Systematic"

BRIEF OF ACCUSATIONS GIVEN COAL COMMISSION

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Apr. 4.—A special committee speaking for bituminous coal operators informed the coal commission in a brief filed today that in their opinion policies followed by the United Mine workers of America constituted the chief deterrent to satisfactory conditions in the coal industry. The recent coal shortage and high prices the brief declared, could be directly traced to the miners' union and the railways unions associated with it. The brief charged that acts of intimidation and violence on the part of United Mine workers "are not sporadic but systematic," and that their resort to such methods calculated to perpetuate a monopoly of mine labor.

TENNESSEANS ATTEND SING- ING FEST HERE LAST NIGHT

About seventy people from Union and Claiborne counties attended the "Old Harp" singing which was held at the East End Baptist church Sunday afternoon. Coming in trucks, automobiles and other conveyances, the visitors arrived here at 11 o'clock in the morning.

The singing began at 1 o'clock, the old "Harp of Columbia" song, books being used, and continued throughout the afternoon. The church was crowded and many were unable to get inside the building. Some of the most prominent families of the two counties were present.

BOSWORTH TRAIL MEETING CALLED

To Promote Interest in Road and Discuss Means of Getting Federal Aid

A meeting has been called in Richmond April 13 to boost sentiment for the Bosworth Trail. Directors of the road association and representatives from the various counties along the line will be delegates to the convention which was called by W. W. Rawlings, president of the association.

Since survey work has actually started on the proposed trail interest in it has been crystallizing and road boosters all over the section are zealously promoting its construction because they see in it one of the surest and quickest ways of developing the mountain country.

The meeting next week has been called, particularly, in the interest of obtaining Federal aid for the road.

The patrolman reported that he followed Case six blocks and witnessed sales totalling six persons. He said that Case had nine and one-half pints of white whiskey, several wine glasses and with a small towel wiped the glass after each sale.

CHAIN OF UNSOLVED MURDERS POINT TO BLACKMAIL SYSTEM

Series Culminating in Slaying of Dorothy King Indicate to Detectives Possibility of Powerful Organization

ENORMOUS SUMS PAID OVER NEVER MADE PUBLIC

By Edward Thierry
NEW YORK, Apr. 5.—Organized blackmail, perhaps the weapon of a single gang, is considered a possible solution to a series of crimes having startling coincidences and culminating in the murder of Dorothy King, Broadway model.

Millions of dollars are secretly extorted, crime experts say, in blackmail plots that have wealthy men and women as victims. These conspirators are known sometimes as "crime scavengers."

Analysis of the possibilities of a series of notorious crimes having been in the hands of one organized band of blackmailers shows cases as links in the chain:

Mysterious slaying of William Desmond Taylor, movie director, in Los Angeles a year ago last February.

Killing of a sailor by Walter S. Ward, millionaire baker's son, near White Plains, N. Y., last May.

Unsolved double murder of Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills at New Brunswick, N. J., last September.

Chloroforming of Mrs. Irene Schoellkopf, wealthy Buffalo woman, and $520,000 jewel robbery in New York New Year's Eve.

Murder by chloroform of Dorothy King and theft of $15,000 worth of jewels in supposed plot to blackmail J. Kearsley Mitchell, son-in-law of E. T. Stotesbury, millionaire Morgan partner.

Blackmail persisted as an explanation of Taylor's murder. Walter Ward, whose release has been the subject of an investigation by Governor Smith, declared he killed his victim to save himself from a gang of blackmailers who had already obtained $300,000 and demanded $75,000 more. In the New Brunswick case the Hall family's theory was that Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills met death at the hands of a band of blackmailers and robbers.

The Schoellkopf robbery case, the only one that did not end in murder, is linked with both the Hall-Mills and the King cases. Chloroform was used to subdue both Mrs. Schoellkopf and Miss King; in the latter case it came from New Brunswick, scene of the Hall-Mills murders; and two men connected with the Schoellkopf case are said to have stayed at the same New Brunswick hotel which employed a man who disappeared from the apartment house where Miss King lived.

Another coincidence is that Neilson Olcott is counsel for Mitchell whose letters are believed to have been sought by blackmailers; and father of William W. K. Olcott, former district attorney, admits he was consulted by the Hall family in the New Brunswick double murder and is regarded as the "brains" that directed the attitude of the Hall family.

"I have had a theory that the same gang of blackmailers might have been involved in other crimes previous to this."

PRESIDENT BUYS FARM NEAR MARION

Harding To Become Gentleman Farmer and Spend Time Writing After White House Days Over

By Associated Press.

MARION, O., Apr. 5.—When he leaves the White House President Harding plans to return to the scene of his early childhood to become a gentleman farmer and spend his time writing, this was announced here today by the president's close home town friends after his purchase yesterday of a two hundred and sixty-five acre farm in Marion county where he was born.

J. KEARSLEY MITCHELL (ABOVE), WALTER S. WARD, (CENTER) AND WILLIAM DESMOND TAYLOR, WHO FIGURED IN THREE UNSOLVED MYSTERIES WHICH POLICE LAY TO BLACKMAILING.

the King murder," said assistant district attorney Ferdinand Pecora. Plunkerton detectives say blackmailing of wealthy men and women has become one of the greatest crime menaces. Most of the cases, they say, never come to light, although several months ago complaint was made to the district attorney's office that blackmailers had been active against many New York society women.

Edward S. Schwab, for 11 years postoffice inspector, says: "Many blackmail cases hinge on letters through the mail, and postoffice inspectors have investigated some that run into amazing figures."

Chief Detective Edward Raines attached to the district attorney's office, says that only a few blackmail cases a year get into the courts because most wealthy victims are willing to submit rather than force exposure, even though innocent. In 33 years of police work, he finds blackmail "rates" steadily increasing until lately $100,000 has been mentioned as the sum demanded in several cases, including that involving Mitchell.

Police Commissioner Enright's office is one of the few crime agencies that favors the robbery theory rather than blackmail in the Dorothy King case.

CARNERON VICTIM OF TUT'S CURSE?

Instigator of Excavation King Tut's Tomb Dies As Result of Poison Sting

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Apr. 5.—Newspapers today reflect the popular view of the death of Lord Carnarvon that perhaps there really was something in the story that he died as the result of King Tut's curse. Carnarvon financed the excavation of Tut's tomb. He died as the result of poison, said to be due to an insect sting. Tut's curse was supposed to descend upon any one who disturbed his bones.

TWENTY-FIVE HURT IN NORTH CAROLINA STORM

By Associated Press.
ALEXANDRIA, Apr. 5.—A death toll as the result of a tornado which late yesterday swept Alexandria and Pineville, was placed today at twenty, fourteen white and six negroes. The total injured is placed at more than sixty, half of whom were in the United States Veterans' hospital near Pineville. Property damage was placed at half a million.

WENDELL, N. C., Apr. 5.—Windstorm here last night injured approximately twenty-five persons, destroyed fifty buildings, wrecked others and badly damaged crops.

NO COAL STRIKE IN DISTRICT 19

Secretary R. E. Howe Believes Miners Will Stay In—Optimistic Over Market and Coal Supply

That the coal strike has not affected District 19 any as yet was the statement made today by R. E. Howe of Knoxville who is in Middlesboro to look after his business interests here. Mr. Howe is secretary of the Southern Appalachian Coal Operators' Association, with headquarters at Knoxville, and he is in a position to know the inner workings of the coal business in this district at all times.

Mr. Howe expressed confidence that the miners would stay at work. This is the opinion generally held by operators through this region who believe that the miners are well enough acquainted with coal conditions to realize that they are being paid all that can possibly be afforded at the present time.

Better market for coal and a better supply of coal cars is having a beneficial effect on the coal business, too, Mr. Howe said, and he seemed optimistic about the immediate future of the industry. Most of the mines in the district are running as much time as they can get cars to supply them with work.

ASSURE HEALTH UNIT 3 MONTHS

Fiscal Court Only Appropriates $1000 For Department—Allow Other County Expenses

PINEVILLE, April 4.—A health department for Bell County was assured financially for the next three months only at the meeting of the Fiscal Court Tuesday morning. An appropriation was made for $1000, which is a great disappointment to those interested in the work of the clinic, as it was hoped that the court would vote to appropriate sufficient funds for the entire year.

Probably the next most important step taken was the voting to oust the city from the use of three rooms in the basement of the court house. The office of the police judge, city clerk, and the city attorney are all the city occupies. The question of rent seems to be the difficulty.

The court also provided for the overhead expenses of the county for the next three months, including salaries, jail, and court house and poor house upkeep, and the maintenance of the prisoners.

The allowance of claims was postponed until the next session of this court which adjourned yesterday to meet again the second Monday in May. The business could not be completed because the work of the board of supervisors and the sheriff's report are not ready. The tax levy will be made after these reports are made.

All members of the court were present except C. G. Smyth and Dr. Jacob Schnitz. Members from Middlesboro and G. W. Fields, of Fonda, representing the eight district.

SUGAR PRICE LAID WHOLLY AT DOOR SUGAR REFINERS

Senate Committee Reports Offenders Are Trying to Destroy American Producing Industry—Farmers' Union Denounce

DEMAND PROSECUTION SUGAR MARKET MANIPULATORS

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Apr. 5.—The present sugar price is laid wholly at the door of sugar refiners today by acting chairman Swoot of the Senate finance committee, who issued a statement declaring the refining interests hoped to get a tariff low enough to destroy the American producing industry and bring the control of every pound of sugar into their hands. About the same time the Farmers' Union in a statement declared the sugar prices resulted from "criminal manipulation" of the market and denie farmers sharing in the proceeds of the robbery. It was advocated that farmers organize to refine and market sugar. They demanded prosecution of the sugar market manipulators and promised reprisals at the polls next year for officials who may allow manipulators to escape.

TELEPHONE LINE BEING BUILT TO FERN LAKE

A telephone line is now being built between Middlesboro and Fern Lake, according to Guy Glover, manager of the Cumberland telephone office. Opening of spring which will cause many people daily to visit the lake has made the telephone convenience a necessity.

The long distance line from Knoxville to Middlesboro has been completed by the American Telephone and Telegraph company. The line was run into Middlesboro this week. The additional line will greatly facilitate the service between here and Knoxville.

LOCAL YOUTH KILLED IN HARLAN MINE TUESDAY

Leland Ellison, age 17 son of T. E. Ellison, Fern Lake was killed in a mine at Harlan Tuesday afternoon by falling slate. His body was shipped to Middlesboro yesterday. He is survived by his father, two brothers, Paul and Lawrence Ellison, of Middlesboro, and one sister, Mrs. Lester Goodwin, of Middlesboro. Funeral services were conducted at the residence this afternoon, Rev. William Yeary officiating. Interment was in the Lane cemetery.

STATE FOURTH IN COAL PRODUCTION

Final Estimate Shows Kentucky Produced 40,100,000 Tons Last Year, Much in Eastern Section

The final estimates made by the U. S. Geological Department in its annual report have been summed up by W. E. Gunn and they show that Kentucky has advanced from fifth to fourth place. Ten years ago both Ohio and Indiana stood ahead of Kentucky but in 1922 Kentucky produced as much as Ohio and Indiana combined.

The production of the leading coal states was as follows, in tons:

|---------------|-------------|
| Pennsylvania | 105,000,000 |
| West Virginia | 81,000,000 |
| Illinois | 59,100,000 |
| Kentucky | 40,100,000 |
| Ohio | 26,500,000 |
| Indiana | 17,330,000 |
| Alabama | 16,100,000 |
| Virginia | 11,100,000 |
| Tennessee | 4,600,000 |

The output of Kentucky mines has doubled in the last few years and nearly all of this growth has been in Eastern Kentucky. It is the high quality of coal in this field that will place our state still closer to the top. The great volume of our high coal nearly entitles this industry to use "of whose kingdom there is no end," according to Mr. Gunn.

During two months of 1922, May and June, the output of Kentucky exceeded the production made by Pennsylvania.

INTERESTING LOCAL ANGLE ON PINEVILLE JAIL DELIVERY GIVEN

An interesting local angle on the Pineville jail delivery has come to light. Sam Bull, it seems, had taken his breakfast at a Nineteenth street restaurant early in the morning and had confided to some one that he was one of four who had made a successful dash for liberty. By some means this intelligence reached Policeman C. W. Yearly who hurried back to the city hall.

"Did you know that you had a jail delivery," asked R. M. Knipp of Jailor Jim Howard over the telephone.

"No, there has been no delivery at this jail," Howard said, "all the prisoners are here."

"But Sam Bull was seen here this morning and said that others had escaped," protested the local jailor.

"Oh, no, he wasn't; I saw him in his cell just a while ago," Howard assured him.

It was four hours later that it was learned that four of the prisoners had taken French leave and that another was quietly biding his time.

DEPUTY PROHIBITION VIOLA- TOR, DISMISSED FROM OFFICE

Dan Marsee, deputy constable under J. M. Thompson, who was found with liquor on his premises recently, has been dismissed from his office by the county court. Constable Thompson, soon after the liquor charges were brought against Marsee, asked permission of the county court to dismiss the deputy from office. The permission being given, Marsee was promptly ousted.

MRS. BETTY BOLDEN, EAST END, DIES YESTERDAY

Mrs. Betty Bolden, age 66, died at her home on Avondale avenue, East End, yesterday morning. She had lived in the East End section for a number of years and was well known and had many friends there. She is survived by her husband, George Bolden, and several sons. Funeral services were held this afternoon. Interment was in Sharp's cemetery.

OLD RESIDENT OF HAGAN, VA., DIED THERE YESTERDAY

Mrs. Emily B. Morgan, age 92, died at her home at Hagan, near Rose Hill, yesterday. The deceased was one of the oldest residents of the section, having lived at Hagan for seventy-five years. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. J. D. Edds of Hagan and two sons, P. M. Morgan, Jonesville, Va. and C. N. Morgan, Brandon, Fla. Mrs. Morgan was a member of the M. E. Church, South at Hagan, and has a large number of friends in the community. Funeral services will be held tomorrow by Rev. Graham. Interment will be in the Morgan cemetery.

SEE DAWSON AS CERTAIN NOMINEE

Quin's Withdrawal Swings Fifth For Him—Has Five Other Districts Practically Solid

That Attorney-General Charles I. Dawson will get the Republican nomination for governor without opposition is the consensus of opinion of leading Republicans in this section. This opinion has crystallized since the announcement yesterday of Mayor Huston Quin that he will not be a candidate for the nomination.

Mayor Quin had been considered as a strong candidate, with almost unanimous backing in Louisville. With him out of the race, the Fifth District, including Louisville, is virtually promised Dawson. The Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Districts have been sold to the attorney-general, and the Third and Sixth are sure to go for him. These add enough prestige to Mr. Dawson to give him the nomination without opposition.

The opinion generally expressed by local Republican leaders is that Dawson will get the nomination and that he will be persuaded to make the race, whether he personally wishes to or not.

HARDING MAY MAKE TRIP TO PACIFIC COAST

President Would Present His Policies to West and Get Western Viewpoint on Various National Problems

PLANS CONFERENCES IN LEADING WESTERN CITIES

By Associated Press.

AUGUSTA, Apr. 5.—President Harding is understood to contemplate a proposed summer trip to the Pacific Coast this summer not only as a means of presenting to the western half of the country his policies but also to ascertain clearly the western viewpoint on national problems. Briefly, the president is represented as desiring to feel the pulse of the West as tentatively mapped out, the trip provides for about twenty addresses in representative cities when he plans to announce a change of outline of the more important policies of his administration for the remainder of his term. Conferences also to be had with leading cities in order to get a background for use in formulating new policies.

Clover Leaf Miners Gassed

Tim Lewis and his son, George, were overcome with bad air at the Clover Leaf mine yesterday, the latter being badly burnt about the face by his lamp when he fell. The two were carried to the open and recovered consciousness later. They were not yet recovered sufficiently to return to work.

WORK ON V. I. C. FURNACE GOES ON

Complete Overhauling Of Boilers—Will Be Ready For Operation In About Three Months

Work of overhauling the V. I. C. furnace which has been temporarily halted on account of the recent rains in progressing though it is thought that it will not be in condition for operation for at least three months. The biggest job to be done at the place is that of completely overhauling the boilers.

One of the great iron smelting furnaces will be relined throughout with fire bricks. The other furnace, known as No. 2, will be used just as it is. Bricks for relining No. 1 have already been procured and the work will begin within a short time. The large air heating furnaces will not be relined. A new sheet iron roof will be of the same material will be made on placed over the entire plant and walls parts of the frame work. This job will be left until the last and will be done, either by private contract or by workmen from other plants of the V. I. C. company.

Though a crew of fifteen men has been employed constantly there for two or three weeks, they have hardly begun the task of repairing the big plant. Work thus far has consisted mainly of removing ashes and slag from the inside of the furnaces and boilers so that the more important work can be done. There are several large boilers which will receive a thorough inspection and overhauling, although the experts. It is thought that many of the boiler tubes which have become corroded with rust will have to be replaced.

No definite information concerning the plans of the V. I. C. has been received by local employees of the firm. Their orders have been to put the place in a condition for operation. It is the general opinion, however, that resumption of work there will take place as soon as the necessary repairs have been made.

About 35,000 tons of iron ore are now on hand at the plant. This quantity, it is said, will last for six months running full time. A fair supply of coke is also on the grounds. The furnaces have a capacity of from 140 to over 200 tons of iron pigs per day. About three hundred men are employed half of them at night when the plant is running full capacity. The company has its own commissary and has fifty-four residences for its employees.

The local plant is next to the largest of the seven owned by the V. I. C. The largest is at Bristol, Va., and is now the only one in operation.

DAWSON FOR GOVERNOR

As developments in the political world continue slowly to shape themselves in tangible proportions, the evidence points more and more favorably toward Attorney-General Charles I. Dawson as the logical man for the Republican nomination for governor. This was emphasized more forcibly by the public announcement yesterday of Mayor Huston Quin of Louisville that he would, under no circumstance, be a candidate for the nomination. Mayor Quin had been considered Mr. Dawson's most formidable opponent.

Mr. Dawson still adheres to his statement made at the Middlesboro banquet, that he will not seek the nomination, and that he will accept it only at the urgent behest of his party. Local Republicans who are in a position to know the trend of the party's politics in the state are of the opinion that the party will insist upon Mr. Dawson taking up the standard at the fall election. Indications from all over the state, too, signify that he is being generally considered as the best man to enter the race for the Republican party.

Charles I. Dawson, while more or less new in the political world, has so well established himself during the time that he has held public office that his influence has been noted in every department of the state. By his straightforward manner and his earnest industry he has won the entire respect of his associates of both parties and the Republican party realizes that he will carry these same admirable virtues along with him as he rises in the political world.

Especially, though, should southeastern Kentucky rally to Mr. Dawson's support, understanding as they should the inestimable value to the people here that it would be to have one of their own men as governor. Mr. Dawson is pledged to protect the coal interests and to promote better schools and roads. These are the three things this section needs and must have for proper development. Barkley, candidate for the Democratic nomination advocates as one of his main issues, if elected, the establishment of a coal tonnage tax. If he should be nominated, Mr. Dawson would obviously poll the votes of a large per cent of Democrats as well as Republicans, because citizens of Southeastern Kentucky realize that a coal tonnage tax would be death to industry here.

No announcements are being made, and probably will not be made before the Republican convention, but in the meanwhile sentiment for Dawson is growing daily more marked and his friends here are assuring themselves that Mr. Dawson will be nominated—and more than that, elected.

TIGHTWADS DEFENDED

What is a tightwad? Uncle Sam, in a booklet, defines him as "a man who saves 60 cents out of every dollar, and expends 37 cents of the balance for living expenses, and one cent each for education, recreation and aims."

That description might hold true in some cases. But how about the

Washington Letter

By Harry Hunt

WASHINGTON, April 4.—"Who let the cat out of the bag?" is the latest query agitating officials of the National League of Women Voters.

Publication of a recent story forecasting a fine, fancy, feminine fight at the league's Des Moines convention this month, with possible sweeping changes in the directing personnel and the policies of the organization, so disturbed the ladylike pulse of some of the officials that they threatened to "get" the job of the correspondent who was so rash as to hint at such developments.

The suggestion that cuts deepest, perhaps, was that a treaty of peace between the league and the National Woman's party might be considered an effort to heal the present division in suffrage ranks and make the women's votes more effective. That the old-line leaders of the league declare unthinkable! No truce with the National Woman's Party, is their slogan.

However, an influential member of aforesaid party was seen entering the league headquarters last week. An expectant wait of half an hour outside failed to show her thrown out on her ear.

Which may be significant, if not interesting.

Apropos of women and publicity, no woman in Washington dodges it so successfully as Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

Not once during the life of Husband Herbert's career as food administrator during the war, as head of the American relief administration and later as secretary of commerce, has Mrs. Hoover given an interview. How she does it is a marvel to some. Why she does it is a puzzle to others who are trying to break into print and can't.

Right-hand lieutenant to Mrs. Hoover

in staving off interviewers and others who would get her into the spotlight is her secretary, Miss Harding, an efficient college-bred young woman of the type you read about in books.

"Last year," says Miss Harding, "while she was out on an inspection tour of the Girl Scouts, someone printed what purported to be an interview with Mrs. Hoover. It was a very nice piece, but as she hadn't given any interview she didn't like it. Indeed, it made her furious."

So, to date, Miss Harding insists, Mrs. Hoover's record scores 100 per cent zero.

Jules Janssard, dean of the diplomatic corps and ambassador from France, is said to stand sponsor for this one:

Teacher (to fourth grade pupils): "Who was Joan of Arc?" Eager miss: "She was the mother of Noah."

With Harry Daugherty having settled the question of who is to be the Republican presidential candidate in 1924, speculation in Washington is running rife as who will tail the ticket.

General opinion in circles where political gossip is gossipiest is that Calvin Coolidge will be sidetracked for a candidate that can help swing into line some state less securely Republican than Massachusetts. Among the names presented to date are Charley G. Dawes of Illinois, Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania and Hiram Johnson of California.

Here are odds to any taker, however, that it will be none of those three. The sedate persiflage of the Senate would drive "Helen Maria" Dawes distracted inside a week. Pinchot and Harding would not team well Johnson will run on no ticket that he cannot head.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN NALDEN PRESCOTT

Nothing doing, old man; at least, nothing doing to date as far as the letters are concerned.

I could see that it would do no good even to mention them when I took Mademoiselle out to dinner the other night. She seemed to have forgotten there was such a thing as a love letter in the world.

We talked you over pretty thoroughly.

The lady acknowledged she wished you well; had nothing against you; that for at least a year you had given her a very beautiful time and that she hoped your wife was worthy of you.

Don't sneer, I think she meant it. She is a very clever girl, Jack. I almost succumbed to her charms myself.

Her conversation, which is a mixture of English when she tries to be calm and French when her emotions become impulsive, is most fascinating.

Honestly, I do not think Paula Perier will give up those letters. However, I should not worry much about them for if she remains in this frame of mind she will never make you any trouble.

She may use them as a lever to pry you away from your wife occasionally, but the time may come when you will want a good excuse.

Of course I understand your predicament, old chap. It isn't particularly pleasant, and I am sure you are wishing a thousand times that there were no letters of yours floating around to be brought up against you.

I will stay here for a couple of days longer. Mademoiselle and I are going on a long motor ride this afternoon and dine at some quiet inn. Perhaps the Fates will be propitious. If so I will bring your love missives when I come in a few days.

SYD.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

So that little vixen has put is over you! I might have known that she could wrap an impressionable old bachelor like you about her little finger.

If you are not successful in getting those letters tonight, wire me and I shall receive a very urgent call from my firm to return to Albany, and go and see the lady myself. I will get them if I have to choke them out of her.

Syd, I never will rest a moment comfortably, while she has them.

You don't know Paula Perier. She can be the sweetest thing in all the world and she can be a hell cat. At one time I thought she was rather fascinating as the hell-cat, but now her claws are out of the velvet and seem quite formidable.

Oh, Syd, I have not done anything bad enough to lose the chance of being loved by the sweetest girl on earth, but I am sure Leslie wouldn't have given me if she knew I had made such a fool of myself. At least she would never trust me again, especially as I have lied like a gentleman to her and told her I have never spoken real words of love to any other girl.

That isn't as great a falsehood as it looks on paper. I may have spoken the words that mean love, but I did not mean them, and the girl I told them to knew I didn't mean them, and she didn't mean the words of love she spoke to me in return. It was just a game, I tell you. Syd, just a game, and I am sorry I ever learned it.

Oh boy, oh boy, I'm afraid I will be sorrier if I do not get those letters in my possession.

LOVELY MOON

It was the lovely moon—she lifted slowly her white brow among bronze cloud-waves that ebbed and drifted faintly, fainter affair. Calm she looked, yet pale with wonder, Sweet in unworldly thoughtfulness, Watching the earth that dwindled under faintly fainter affair. It was the lovely moon that lovelike hovered over the wandering tired Earth, her bosom grey and dovelike hovering beautiful as a dove. The lovely moon—her soft light falling lightly on roof and poplar and pine—Tree to tree whispering and chime, Wonderful in the silvery shine Of the round, lovely thoughtful moon. —John Freeman.

TODAY'S RECIPES

FOOD LUXURIES

There comes a time, perhaps in April or May or in some parts of the country December and January, when the housewife in buying supplies is sorely tempted to buy, what seems to her, unwisely and possibly extravagantly. There are vegetables and fruits which are a little out of season, and she longs to purchase a delicacy for the family.

There is, I think, a justification for such expenditure at times, and the wise woman will buy "pleasure-giving" foods, and balance her budget by having a cheaper cut of meat or a less expensive vegetable another day. If during the week a meal or two contain a surprise—a favorite dessert, or a cake or pie, an unusual salad, or a choice cut of meat, the housewife can keep her family satisfied and happy. It is the deadly monotony of food, no matter how good it may be, that we cannot stand without fussing.

Sometimes the color of strawberries is as appealing as the flavor. Who cannot be moved by the combination of strawberries, sugar, butter hot biscuits and cream? In combination it is the old fashioned strawberry shortcake which some consider the only "real" one. Others are equally pleased with a cake filled with berries, and white on top, with beaten cream.

For breakfast or lunch on a warm spring day is there any dish more inviting than broiled shad roe on a bed of watercress?

Or some days there will be mushrooms in the market, cheap and good. One can make a meal of creamed mushrooms and salad

L. M. U. PROFESSOR KIWANIS SPEAKER

Tells of Proposed Educational Development in Mountains—J. L. Sanders, Chairman

Prof. Joe J. Lowrey, head of the education department of Lincoln Memorial University, was the speaker of the day at the Kiwanis Club luncheon today. J. L. Sanders was chairman of the meeting, which was unusually well-attended. Dr. U. G. Brummett drew the attendance prize.

Professor Lowrey spoke on the future of educational development in this mountain section dwelling in particular on what the survey of education conditions here, now being made by the Carnegie Institute, would mean for this development. This Institution, not understanding why the mountain section of the Southern Appalachians should be more backward than other mountain section, is making a thorough survey of conditions, purely scientific and unbiased. When they have finished they will make recommendations which Professor Lowrey thinks will bring about a standardization of education in these parts.

In speaking of conditions in these parts, Professor Lowrey quoted an investigation made of a typical district in the mountains, thirty miles square, in which it was shown that two-thirds of the mountain people are not getting enough to live on and that about half of them are on the way to extinction. He concluded from this that some thing must be done for the mountaineers, and that quickly or they would be extinct in a few more generations.

Judge J. B. Lindsey of Knoxville was a distinguished visitor at the club today. Judge Lindsey decline to make a speech, more than a few short stories, but he promised to attend the club at a later date and make an address then.

President A. P. Liebig told a little bit of what happened at the Inter-City Kiwanis meeting in Knoxville last Thursday which was attended by the local Kiwanis officers. He spoke in particular of the record given there by the Irvine club which has had a one hundred per cent attendance at its luncheons the past four weeks and whose members have signed an agreement to attend every time under all circumstances.

CONVENTION NOTES

The "On-to-Atlanta" committees are beginning to function in great shape, from the news reaching the convention office in Atlanta. Some of them are getting out folders, with pictures and everything, announcing special trains and reminding the fellows to grab a lower berth while the grabbing is good. Jules Brazil, of the Toronto Kiwanis Club, the liveliest little song leader and pep-producer who ever wore a kilt, is coming of course. You fellows who haven't met him have heard about him. Better come down and get acquainted with Jules. It's worth the trip.

We're making arrangements to give you some more Kiwanis chat and music over radio too. Keep your eye on the radio pages in your favorite paper and watch for announcements in this bulletin.

Some weeks ago we announced that Atlanta visitors would hit just the right season for "chicken and fixins" and one of the Eastern club bulletins came right back and asked, "Whatter-youmean by 'fixins'?"

Why the stuffing, of course! What did you think we meant?

Did you ever hear a real bunch of darkey jubilee singers bear down on the close harmony and the tonsorial minors in a good old fashioned "hymn chune," like, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot, Comin' for to Carry Me Home"? Well, you're going to on "Plantation Night" in Atlanta. And you will wonder why Atlanta bothers to import Metropolitan Grand Opera every spring, with voices like that in her midst.

Atlanta is the center of automobile distribution for the southeast, and has some ten blocks devoted to nothing else but automobile display and selling. She has more privately owned cars than any other city in the South, and the Kiwanians average one car to a member. Not that you're interested in statistics—but we want to remind you that you'll need walking shoes only for golf. If you don't see a Kiwanis car handy, just whistle!

Atlanta will be ready and waiting for you. Henry C. Heinz, chairman of the General Committee, is holding meetings of his chairmen every day or two, and they're not merely talking—they're doing. Some definite progress is being made every week, and they won't overlook a detail which will help make your stay pleasant.

latest exploit is a bust of W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer, is the man who has suddenly turned topsyturvy all popular conceptions of art and artists.

"Artists don't starve out misunderstood lives in attics," he says. They're not all erratic geniuses, afflicted with hysteresis and exploding in fits of temperment.

"Persons like that aren't artists. They're imitations. Art is commonplace. That's why crazy cults, like cubist art, cannot endure."

Begoni says an artist can't be a success if he's temperamental. He points to the Durant bust as an example.

"I chased him around for three months just to get 60 minutes posing," Begoni said. "He was busy at his art—for there is art in business no matter what pseudo-idealists say—and I simply adjusted mine to his. I rely on my enthusiasm, and I had to keep my enthusiasm alive under all handicaps." The Durant bust has been pronounced perfect by critics. The same is true of the head of Maj.-Gen. John F. O'Ryuan, commander of the 27th division, for which he received $7500. Begoni's revolutionary ideas about art have had a successful demonstration as the result of a bet. In a discussion with a friend over sculpture in 1919 he borrowed some modeling clay, which he had never touched before, and within 30 minutes made a head with the aid of a nailfile and a buttonhook. The friend considered it such a good likeness of himself that he had it cast in bronze and exhibited it.

Immediately he was deluged with commissions. He did busts of Mrs. Walter Lewisohn, Mrs. Roger Minton, and other society women; President Menocal of Cuba; Gatti-Cazzazza, the opera impresario; Father Duffy, famous chaplain of the 69th Regiment and others.

Begoni wanted to be a musician, but his family in Italy insisted there wasn't enough money in art and deflected him into law. He practiced as a lawyer in Florence and came to America as partner in a law firm in 1906. He didn't like it so he decided to take up painting. With another leap he plunged into literature and wrote several monumental works, including "Italians in the United States," an work with the endorsement of the pope such books as "The Catholic Church in the United States" and "The Vatican, Its History and Treasures." In 1919 he suddenly switched to sculpting and has gained fame and fortune.

"My Durant head was a test of commonsense art," he said. "He was swift and so was I—just modern business methods applied to art. Why not that, instead of foolish talk about applying art to business? It's there now."

Make THE Backyard Pay

Tomatoes eggplant and peppers are a group of crops belonging to the nightshade family, and closely related to the Irish potato, that has become quite important among garden crops within the past half century. These crops are well adapted to the small garden as comparatively little space is required to provide the needs of the ordinary family. Tomatoes are the most important of the three and can be grown over a wider range of territory and on almost any type of soil. Eggplant is difficult to grow in many sections. Peppers, like tomatoes, can be grown anywhere with proper care.

Tomatoes do best in the home garden when the plants are started indoors, transplanted to pots or plant bands, grown for a time in the hothead or coldframe and then planted in the garden after danger of frost is past. In the small garden the tomato plants can be set 18 by 36 inches and trained to a single stem tied to stakes. In this way a large number of the plants can be grown than where the plants are allowed to grow naturally on the ground, the fruit is cleaner and there is less trouble with the fruit rotting in damp weather.

Care In Pruning

In pruning all side shoots are removed, care being taken not to mistake the blossom or fruit clusters for side shoots. The blossom clusters come on the smooth side of the stem while the shoots or branches appear in the little pocket formed here the leaf attaches to the stem. Any soft string or strip of old muslin will answer for tying the tomato vines to the stakes or trellis. About four or five prunings and tyings are necessary, the main object being to do the work on time to prevent the side shoots becoming too large.

Eggplant is grown from seeds the same as tomatoes, but the plants are very delicate and require plenty of heat. The little insects known as flea-beetle are very fond of eggplant leaves. When the grower notices plants looking thin and sickly, he finds that under the sides of the leaves are eaten away and there are numerous small holes clear through the leaves.

Dusting the plants with air-slacked lime is reasonably effective in driving these beetles away. Dusting with nicotine sulphate just is also effective, likewise spraying the plants with arsenate of lead at the rate of one ounce in the paste form to a gallon of water to which a little lime is added to prevent the arsenate of lead from burning the leaves.

Rich, Moist Soil

Eggplant requires a very rich soil and plenty of moisture. However, the plants will not do so well on wet or poorly drained soil.

Peppers should be started in the house about four weeks before the tender plants can be set outdoors. The plants should be handled in about the same way as tomato plants and will withstand about the same degree of exposure.

Ten or a dozen plants will furnish plenty for the ordinary family and are decidedly worth while in the home garden.

Raspberries are the second of our early fruits. There are three types of raspberries, red, black and purple. The red type differs from the others in its habit of growth and method of forming new plants from the roots. The black and purple types form new plants by the tips of the canes bending in downward and taking root in the soil. Good varieties of the red type are Cuthbert, Loudon, Marlboro and Ranere, or St. Regis. Among the good black varieties are the Cumberland, Gregg, Farmer and Kansas. Five good varieties of the dull purple are Cardinal, Columbian, Haymaker, Royal and Shaffer. Less than fifteen to twenty plants of each will not give enough berries for the ordinary family. The plants should be set at least 2 by 3 feet and tied to stakes.

Raspberries want rich deep soil and plenty of manure and fertilizer each year. The fruit is borne on wood of last year's growth so that after the spring fruiting period the old canes should all be pruned out. Pinching the heart out of the growing canes, when about 3 feet in height will cause branches to form. The exception is the Alkinere of St. Regis which frequently bears a spring and fall crop. Other of the red varieties have this characteristic to a limited extent.

The methods of securing two crops from the Ranere or St. Regis is as follows: After the spring crop is gathered the old canes are pruned out and the plants cultivated and fertilized. The tips of the new canes are not pinched out but are kept growing well in to the early fall when they blossom and produce a crop of fruit.

Following the fall crop of at some time late in winter the canes are tip-pruned and when they start the new growth in the spring they throw out numerous short side shoots on which the spring crop is borne. Following the spring crop pruned out the old canes and repeat each year until the plants become weakened.

In the meantime make a new planting.

As many as six or eight quarts of fall crop raspberries may be gathered from a row 60 or 70 feet long each week over a period of three or four weeks. Around Hammondton, N. J., hundreds of crates of fall crop raspberries are produced each year.

It should be borne in mind, however, that raspberries do not thrive everywhere. Especially is this true of the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast States. The climate of parts of the north-west is also too severe for raspberries unless they are given special protection during the winter.

OUNCE OF CONTRABAND LIQUOR AS GOOD EVIDENCE AS BARREL

By Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Apr. 4.—An ounce of contraband liquor is just as good evidence of guilt of violation of the prohibition laws as a barrel in the opinion of Magistrate Albert Nesbit.

When D. P. Catlett, proprietor of a soft drink stand was arraigned before Magistrate Nesbit on a charge of illegally possessing whiskey, arresting officers testified that when they entered his place, he had two glasses of liquor behind the bar. An effort was made according to the officers, to pour the liquor in a sink, but they were unsuccessful in obtaining a small portion of the "evidence."

"A man is just as guilty of violating the prohibition laws when he has an ounce of whiskey in his possession as he is when he has a barrel of liquor," the magistrate said, in assessing a fine of $200 upon the defendant.

URGES ACTION ON DIXIE HIGHWAY

Cincinnati Man Says Eastern Branch
Of Road Apparently Sleeping,
Should Get Busy

The following letter to W. M. Frazier, cashier of the Citizens' Bank and Trust company is from Monte J. Goble of the Fifty-third National Bank, Cincinnati, a member of the Board of Directors of the Cincinnati Automobile Club, and is in regard to the Dixie Highway in particular:

With the approach of spring, all who are interested in the eastern branch of the Dixie Highway should get busy. That branch is apparently sleeping. Commissioner Boggs of Kentucky will assist in every possible way in seeing that it is built up. He is an able executive but undoubtedly his hands have been tied more or less in the past. Is this to continue or may this important highway move out on the active support of bankers like you who, if they bestir themselves to find out what has been delaying the improvement of this part of the road, can undoubtedly accomplish a great deal?

From Cincinnati and branching out in all directions up into Michigan, the roads are in good shape. The tremendous travel from north, east and northwest would pass from Cincinnati through Central Kentucky into Tennessee, North Carolina and on south to Florida every winter if the eastern branch were improved. It is estimated that tourists to the number of at least 250,000 would use the Dixie Highway and this branch would have the benefit. We are all missing it now. Banks, merchants, hotels and garages would greatly benefit, likewise the farmers whose beautiful farm lands in Kentucky and elsewhere would be opened to the view of a desirable and able class of purchasers. The same would apply in the development of coal, oil, etc.

Could not arrangements be made for a big mass meeting to be held at Lexington, Winchester, Danville, Richmond or some other important city in the Blue Grass section, for all interested to take part in a spring rally, with speeches from Commissioner Boggs and others, with a view to getting something started? I am sure we could count upon the co-operation of Chattanooga, Knoxville Asheville, Cincinnati, Jacksonville, and in fact of others all along the route from Michigan to Miami, Florida.

The writer is a member of the Board of Directors of our local automobile club and has been appointed one of a committee to see what could be done to stimulate work for the early completion of the entire road, from Michigan to Florida.

TRIP TO THE PINNACLE FULL OF REAL THRILLS

The following graphic description of a trip up the Pinnacle and down it on the other side is sent us by a reader who, in company with several local persons, recently made the trip. The story has a familiar smack to Middleboro persons, most of whom have personally made the trip.

"The journey to the Cumberland Gap was made in two autos. After viewing the Daniel Boone Monument the path straight up the mountain was taken. This tested the mountain climbing abilities of the party at the very beginning and all responded to the test, although not without many stops for breath and to view the scenery. When the top of the cliff was reached, about half way up the mountain, kodak pictures were taken of Fern Lake, Middleboro, and a party who had gathered around and on top of the Daniel Boone Monument to hold some kind of services. Their singing was heard, which acted as a spur to complete the climb.

"About an hour was spent on the Pinnacle making kodak pictures, viewing the scenery and resting, after which it was decided to take in the Soldiers Cave, reaching it by the shortest route, which was directly down the mountain on the Virginia side.

"The way now went downwards, and sliding, slipping on the dry leaves, clinging to the projections of the cliffs and clutching roots and bushes and small trees, the straggling members of the party reached a path under the Pinnacle and on top of the 400 feet ledge of limestone. A short rest was made here, and a council was held whether to follow the easily traveled path or to continue straight down the mountain side would be the better plan but the cry 'On to the cave' prevailed and the descent of the Pinnacle continued.

"What had gone before was but the introduction of the downward

RICHARD HALE CONCERT WILL BE HELD HERE APRIL 17
The ticket sale for the Richard Hale concert, to be given at the central school auditorium the evening of April 17, under the auspices of the Woman's Club, will be launched Saturday. Girls from the high school will sell tickets for the concert.
The bringing of Richard Hale, well-known New York baritone, to Middleboro to sing is a large and a commendable undertaking and should certainly be well-backed by local citizens. Mr. Hale is an artist of recognized ability and he very seldom comes to a place of this size. He sang recently at the Odeon in St. Louis where he was well received and last night he gave a concert in New Orleans.

T. R. HILL TOASTMASTER AT JELICO S. S. BANQUET TONIGHT
JELICO, Apr. 5.—Bereans of the First Baptist church recently planned a young men's banquet but finally consolidated with the Business men of the church in a general banquet for men, at which time George Hayes of Louisville addressed the gathering; but now the class is putting on an aggressive campaign for new members and strengthening of old ones and are starting with a banquet for all young men who are now members or prospective.
The banquet will be in the basement of the First Baptist church which is spacious and attractive. Thursday night April 5 is the auspicious date. T. R. Hill of Middleboro, formerly a teacher of the class and citizen of Jellico but now at the head of the largest men's Sunday school class of the South, Middleboro, Ky., will be toastmaster.

journey. The 400 feet ledge was interspersed with sheer cliffs and benches only slightly less steep. To negotiate the cliffs one needed surefootedness of the mountain goats, a clear head and steady nerves. Wider and wider grew the gaps that separated the different groups of the party until the cries of encouragement and of discovery of those in advance to those in the rear grew fainter and fainter to the utter and finally were not heard at all. The queries 'Have you found the cave?' and where is the cave? became more frequent, until finally the glad cry arose from the depths that the path leading to the cave had been reached. This heartened the stragglers to renewed efforts, and one by one the breathless and wobbly kneed ones slid to a stop in the path and became momentarily still. The purple, rose and gold sunset colors on the Virginia hills told of the approaching night. The path was followed until the mouth of the Soldiers Cave could be seen in the cliff above, but the cry of 'On to the cave' had been stilled for the time being. The lights of the town of Cumberland Gap were beacons of hope and promise on the left, and on the right the mouth of King Solomon's Cave was looked into as the walk up the Virginia road was pursued in the gathering dusk to the waiting autos in the gap."

"TAKE IT FROM ME" TO BE CLEVER PRESENTATION

"Take It From Me", the big gorgeous musical comedy which amused New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia last season will come to the Manning Theatre, Friday night.

"Take It From Me" is a winner. As a conglomeration of comedy and kickings, it sets a new pace of light entertainment to clock by. As a plot model it is better than the average. As a medium for philosophy designed to dispel the dull cares of business it is a revelation. All in all, it is A-1 amusement. It is one of the breeziest swiftest, most tuneful and altogether delightful musical comedies to hit the trail this season, if not for several seasons.

"Take It From Me" not only has a story which can be traced without resorting to a finger print system, but delightful music, good business through out, sparkling lines, tip-top dancing and all sorts of snap and dash.

The story concerns a young chap who discovers that he will inherit the controlling interest in a big department store if he runs it for a year at a profit. Tom and his two pals make the attempt only to find that the former manager has planned to defeat them. So they start into wreck the business as the only way to get even. Their schemes, however, turn out the opposite of what they expect and the hero wins a fortune and a sweetheart when the final curtain drops.

Apparently Courts Have No Fixed Limits For Damages.

The damages awarded nowadays by courts in automobile accidents are of interest to all owners and drivers of automobiles. Apparently there is no limit to the damages.

Miriam Donald, San Jose, Cal., was awarded a judgment of $32,935 against Phillip G. Valentine, for injuries suffered when run down by Valentine in an automobile.

Rose Cattani, 8 years old, was awarded $60,000 damages by a jury against a New York City express company for the crushing of both of her hands while she was playing beside the curb.

The United States District Court at Newark, N. J., has ordered Jacob Oster, Hoboken, N. J., to pay $28,651 for killing three persons by driving into a parade at Secaucus, N. J., a year ago. As the act was "willful and malicious" he was ordered jailed until the judgment of the court is satisfied.
